Heart Attack Fatal to Henry T. Nash, Jr.

Merion Man Dies in Sleep Saturday Night; Services Held Wednesday

WORLD WAR VETERAN

Services were held at 2 P. M. Wednesday at his home, Oak and Rockland roads, Merion, for Henry T. Nash, Jr., who died in his sleep late Saturday night. Death came without warning, without illness, the result of a blood clot that affected his heart.

Members of the Narberth Business Council, of which he was once secretary, called at his home Tuesday night. The Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, of which he was a member, paid tribute when Commander Walter P. Miesen placed a marker on the grave at West Laurel Hill, and a resolution of condolence was passed at their meeting Monday night.

Mr. Nash, who was 43, was one of three brothers who served during the World War. John died suddenly of heart disease last March. Walter survives. Henry saw service overseas with the U. S. Army Air Corps.

He was manager of the suburban real estate offices of Robert J. Nash, elder brother, who outlives him, as do his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Hart Nash; son, Henry T., 3d, and two sisters, Mrs. Frederick Wetherill, Rosemont, and Mrs. George Floyd, Penn Valley.

Mr. Nash, who was a Mason, was well-liked and his death is sincerely mourned.

Ralph M. Bashore, State Secretary of Labor and Industry, estimates that 75,000 new jobs should be created by Pennsylvania's General 44-Hour Law, effective December 1.

The Executive Board of the Narberth P. T. A. Association will entertain the Narberth School faculty at Erskine Hall, December 1, at supper.

BY TOMMY MACKLIN

Lower Merion's bow-legged Bulldog was sent out on a foraging expedition last Saturday at Villanova. He was supposed to round up a pack of Red Raiders from Radnor for a football feast, but he forgot his mission. The Billious Brute was first stepped on, but it took a kick in the pants to rouse him enough to snarl back. That snarl was good for six points, but when a Bulldog goes hunting for Red Raiders it takes more than six points for a feast. Radnor won 14 to 6, as if you didn't know.

Lower Merion showed its power in the last five minutes of the game, a power that would have smashed Radnor to pieces if it had been accompanied with a real desire to win. The Red Raiders carried the fight from the opening gun and particularly during the last half they threw the home team back on its haunches time after time. The Wayne lads deserved to win.

Mrs. Mary Clear won the blanket in the drawing last Friday. The Blanket Club will give another today.

The bridge party in the clubrooms last Thursday for the new members was very successful. About 100 people attended, including the 35 new members. Mrs. John H. Jefferies, Jr., is chairman.

"Ghost Train" Arrives Next Week, Full of Thrills and Novel Effects

"The Ghost Train," that spectacular mystery melodrama that thrilled staid old London for a year and enjoyed a successful run in New York, is the Narberth Players next production for the nights of Friday and Saturday, December 3 and 4.

The clever Arnold Ridley, whose ingenious brain and facile pen are responsible for the piece, has taken the vicinity of Rockport, Maine, for his locale, and woven around a story of a phantom locomotive a thrilling and tense melodramatic plot.

There are laughs and suspense in this haunting tale of night-time. Things spin along at a dizzy pace, punctuated with comedy, and ending in a romance.

Perhaps the biggest feature of this production will be the many and complicated sound effects to be handled by Grace Werner, assisted by Bill Hand and Marty Mellinger. No production of the Narberth Players was ever so dependent upon the perfect precision of this part of the work, which requires as many rehearsals as do the player themselves in their lines. Every detail of sound and light will be carried out insuring a perfect performance and a "thrill-a-minute" evening. It is perhaps the

Screen Test

The tall, wavy-haired Narberth youth, who drives for Ricklin's, attracted the attention of a talent scout while working at the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia.

He is a member of St. Margaret's Minstrels and plays end on the Narberth football team.

The Women's Guild of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the church next Thursday, from 10 o'clock until 3. Sewing will be for missionary boxes and Children's Hospital. Surgical dressings will be made for Presbyterian Hospital.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30; Mrs. C. C. Tyson, with members of the December Circle, will be the hostesses. Following luncheon there will be a Christmas program.

Shifted Balance

of Power in Europe Will Be Told by Besse D. Howard Here Tuesday

How the world may soon wake to the startling fact that, without any war, the balance of power has been shifted in Europe from England and France to the Anti-Communist group will be shown by Miss Besse D. Howard, former member of the American committee in Geneva, when she speaks at the stated meeting of the Women's Community Club of Narberth next Tuesday, in the community building.

Miss Howard, who has been director of the Pennsylvania Branch, League of Nations Association since 1930, spent last summer questioning political leaders over Europe. She feels that the new combination of director-led nations, Japan, Germany and Italy, realizing that a general European war is unlikely, will now usurp control, with results as disastrous to democracy as war.

Club members are reminded to bring food of various kinds to the food sale which the Project Committee is giving for the Health Center at this meeting, as well as come prepared to buy. Mrs. E. S. Deubler will be hostess.

Pray Praises Our Town for Stand on Station and Urges Public to Gird Loins

Congratulations on your great start toward making "Our Town" not only lively and interesting, but a real factor for progress in our community life! Here's hoping that you find your way into every home in Narberth!

Your vivid picture of the new "dog-house" station is an indication of the sort of drive you can help to put back of a much-needed community project. Here is an issue in which our borough government and all our citizens can unite for vigorous action. Neither the government alone, nor our unorganized commuters, can probably do much alone. The united force of the community, under aggressive official leadership, can probably get real results in the end, and possibly soon.

The station project might, as a matter of fact, easily be connected with the project for an Essex avenue underpass highway connecting the two sides of the borough. The Pennsylvania Railroad is also involved in the Narberth avenue bridge project. Between the borough, the railroad, and the W. P. A. authorities, solutions to all these problems might be worked out in the relatively near future. The

Building & Loan Will Meet Next Thursday

Shareholders Who Will Not Attend Are Urged to Mail Their Proxies Promptly

WIND-UP IS VOLUNTARY

A plan of liquidation will be considered by shareholders of the Narberth Building and Loan Association at a meeting in Elm Hall 7:30 P. M. next Thursday.

Those who are unable to attend are urged to mail their proxies now, because 80 per cent of the stockholders must assent to liquidation before the B. & L.'s affairs can be closed. It is expected 100 per cent of principal will be paid, once the liquidation, which is entirely voluntary, is effected.

Three trustees are to be elected. William D. Smedley and Thomas C. Trotter, Jr., as mentioned last week, are not candidates for trustees, but are being named as proxy-holders to facilitate voting.

The association, which began business as a community enterprise in March, 1907, once had 14,000 shares outstanding, and assets of almost $1,500,000. Current stock liability is $350,000 to 400 shareholders. In addition to mortgages held, the B. & L. owns fifty homes, in Narberth and nearby.

Business Council Election December 6. Plan Lights

Election meeting of the Narberth Business Council will take place Monday evening, December 6, at the Arcadia Restaurant. The Nominating Committee, appointed by President Roy Gowland at a board meeting Tuesday noon, is Marios Chios, chairman, and Carl B. Metzger, Jr., and Nicholas Fiofina.

It was announced that Christmas lights will be strung along the business section earlier than usual this year, probably December 10.

Public Is Asked To Buy Bonds To Pay For Playground's Memorial Grouping

Last summer the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, grouped at Windsor and Wynnewood avenues, the community playground's corner, $2500 worth of memorial to Narberth's veterans of the World War. There's a flagpole, cannon, monument, steps, and several scarlet oaks, one each for those men who gave their lives in the service of our country.

Thanks to the Legion men's work, half the cost was saved. The other half, close to $1300, is solicited from the public.

Month ago, 1200 participating bonds were mailed, one to each household in Narberth, with the request that they be bought, at a dollar apiece. Part of the proceeds will be awarded a holder of one of the bonds. The rest will pay for the memorial grouping, and pave the way for the Legion's next project, the correction of a few imperfections in the listing of veterans' names on the memorial tablet, which originally stood in front of the Community Building.

The public is now asked to mail payment for the bonds this week-end, to help the Legion and complete an impressive and meritorious public improvement.

Letters containing Christmas Seals are being mailed this week by the Montgomery County Tuberculosis and Public Health Society. The annual campaign for control and prevention of tuberculosis started Thanksgiving Day, will continue until Christmas.

Auditorium president, Ardmore, heads the Lower Merion-Narberth Committee selling Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. Last year's campaign netted $5,680.19. The public's contributions help community health and tuberculosis work in this section, and makes possible expert clinical scrutiny of local children in public and parochial schools, bringing to light many incipient cases in time to effect cures.

Clang!—Money, Please

Narberth has no family on public relief, but to seven local families who are hard up, none the less, Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, borough chairman, has given baskets for a joyful Thanksgiving. And there will be need at Christmas time and afterwards, of supplies that only cash can buy. So the borough firemen this week-end are to begin their accustomed door-to-door calls, soliciting money to aid those needy families.

important thing is to try, and to act, and to unite the people of the borough behind their government, in support of progressive action.

It is this sort of action that the sponsors of the "New Constructive Program" for Narberth have in mind. They were surprised and pleased to have Collector Dold mention the program in his recent address of gratitude to the voters in your letter column. It is comforting to know that "there is an answer" to each of the sixteen points in that program. It is not so comforting to have Mr. Dold intimate that borough taxpayers should not care what that answer is, but should sleep quietly in their easy chairs, waking only to vote "the straight ticket" on election day.

That kind of lazy citizenship is an easy habit to acquire. The one-party system in Germany and Italy—where the government decides what is good for everybody—is the apotheosis of that idea. We have not yet adopted the system in this country. We still think the government has responsibility to the citizen, and the citizen owes a duty to his community, beyond voting "the straight ticket" once a year.

It may interest your readers to know that a group of citizens of all parties in Narberth, rejecting the philosophy of an all-wise government, and believing that citizens have a duty to participate the year round in protecting and promoting their own interests, have decided to develop and push a constructive program for Narberth. Courteously and cooperatively, but firmly and persistently, they propose to assist their government in bringing borough problems and policies home to the responsible citizen, and to unite citizens and officials in finding sound and progressive answers to these problems. They welcome the new energy and vision of "Our Town" as a powerful factor in achieving this result.

Mr. Dold Makes Answer

Dear Editor:

Permit me to make answer at this time to a couple of the statements made in the folder, "Narberth Needs," issued and supported by the candidates of the Democratic party at the last election.

Answer to No. 10.—"Revision of Tax Collectors' Compensation and Duties"—The Borough Code as enacted by the State Senate, provides compensation for the collection of taxes shall not exceed 5%. The Borough and School allow 2% and the Tax Collector pays all expenses: Bonds for collection—Depository Bond—Printing—Envelopes—Postage—Hold Up Insurance—Advertising—Office Expense, which for the year 1936 totaled $1,662.31. Taxes collected, less Liens and Exonerations, amounted to $79,851.00 for the School and $72,022.40 for the Borough:

2% commission on the above totals$3,037.46
Less expenses1,662.31

Actual compensation$1,375.15
An accurate number of taxables is stated each year in the minutes of the School Board and of Borough Council. Exonerations craved and Liens filed are also furnished each Board, and in addition, the Borough Auditors file detailed reports, and the Tax Collector also submits report to Harrisburg.

Answer to No. 14.—"Reasonable Rotation in Key Offices"—There is only one answer to this—"the ballot"—there is nothing to prevent anyone from running on the ballot for elective offices—the citizens make the final decision.

EDWIN P. DOLD,
Tax Collector.

The Book Shelf

For the first week since it was published, many months ago, "Gone With the Wind" failed to show up among the ten best fiction sellers, as surveyed by the New York Herald-Tribune:

Fiction

"The Citadel," Cronin.
"Northwest Passage," Roberts.
"The Rains Came," Bromfield.
"And So Victoria," Wilkins.
"To Have and Have Not," Hemingway.

"Enchanter's Nightshade," Bridge.
"The Turning Wheels," Cloete.
"The Nutmeg Tree," Sharp.
"So Great a Man," Pilgrim.
"They Seek a Country," Young.

Non-Fiction

"The Arts," Van Loon.
"How to Win Friends and Influence People," Carnegie.
"Life With Mother," Day.
"Andrew Jackson," James.
"Four Hundred Million Customers," Crow.

"An American Doctor's Odyssey," Heiser.
"The Return to Religion," Link.
"New Frontiers of the Mind," Rhine.
"Orchids on Your Budget," Hillis.
"The Good Society," Lippmann.

Don't avoid Little-Brown's ($2.50)

No. 1 best seller, Dr. A. J. Cronin's well-gaited "The Citadel" (a tale of medecine), because you are averse to the rattle of dry bones, as there is much more to the book than that, one evidence of unbridled action occurring in the first 30 pages, when the physicians, hamstrung by official lethargy, step out of character, under cover of darkness, to blow up a sewer in order to check an enteric epidemic.

Those who seek firm footing for their conversations and convictions on social-economic-world issues will find Christopher Dawson's very careful "Enquiries Into Religion and Culture" (Sheed-Ward $3.00) a veritable boon, a book well worth many winter evenings.

"Off With Their Heads" (MacMillan $3.00) is real stuff, the adventures of Victor Van Hagen in the upper Amazon, and there's nothing he skips, a fascinating narrative of profuse detail as well as strong-enough meat.

If you want to know "What People Think About You," get the book called "Dynamite," by Doris Webster and Mary Alden Hopkins, and put it into use when company comes, after which you are apt to agree that Appleton-Century are providing a great big one-dollar's worth of fancy fun and frank facts.

It is not hard for Louis Bromfield to write like a house on fire and the 600 pages needed to tell how "The Rains Came" (Harper's $2.75) may also be read in the same galloping fashion, with no stops for the earthquakes, floods and disasters with which he abounds the book's locale of modern India.

Christmas is coming, which means you can help the book cause of Our Town by sending in some gift orders to this office at money-saving rates.

THANKSGIVING

What have we to be thankful for? Rich and poor, young and old, we who live in this land should answer this question honestly and loyally: we who have so much to be thankful for more than any other people on the face of the earth.

First of all, we should be thankful that we live in a land of liberty. Slowly the wheels of reaction are grinding away nearly everywhere the hard-won human liberties for which men fought and died during ten centuries of history. In most of Europe, in all of Asia, liberty has disappeared and man has been thrown into mediaeval slavery. But we remain free: for that we are thankful.

Only those who never loved this land can see its future through spectacles that are gloomy. And yet, knowing our imperfections, we do not rest content that with us life is more free, more comfortable than with other men. We envisage a life better and nobler, a life of decreased physical and spiritual pain, a life in which unselfishness will triumph over greed and in which the spirit of God will free all men from the poisons of vicious and vacuous living. For that vision, oh Lord, we are thankful.

Narberth Has "100 Men and a Girl," "Big City" Next

At Narberth this week-end: "100 Men and a Girl"—breezy film featuring Deanna Durbin, Leopold Stokowski, the Philadelphia Orchestra and classical music temptingly served.

Monday and Tuesday, Luise Rainer and Spencer Tracy, stars of Academy Award, brilliance, will give a vivid performance in "Big City," a story of New York cabs, racketeers, a Hungarian girl in danger of deportation, and her friends who shield her. There's an improbable but hilarious finale, when racketeers run afoul such sports celebrities as Jack Dempsey, "Man Mountain" Dean, Bull Montana and a dozen others.

Wednesday, Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell will appear in "Back in Circulation," for Narberth's Award Night.

Thursday and Friday, "That Certain Woman" will present Bette Davis as a gangster's widow who has shaken off her past, and Henry Fonda as the wealthy playboy who falls in love with her.

Starting Saturday: "Dead End," superb film translation of Sidney Kingsley's social drama of contrasting lives on a New York street that ends at East River.

"Life Begins in College"

Features Fine Supporting Cast

Tony Martin is featured in the important supporting cast of "Life Begins in College," Twentieth Century-Fox musical hit starring the Ritz Brothers, currently at the Suburban Theater.

Formerly an orchestra leader and stage and radio singer, Martin began his theatrical career while he was a student at St. Mary's College.

The supporting cast also features Joan Davis and Gloria Stuart, and includes Fred Stone and Nat Pendleton.

The inner workings of the most extraordinary and exciting business organization in the world, Lloyds of London, the father of modern insurance and the forerunner of world-wide news agencies, is told in the Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, "Lloyds of London," Tuesday and Wednesday at the Suburban Theater.

Consisting of about fifteen hundred individuals, Lloyds itself writes no insurance policies. These are written by member underwriters as individuals, and no policy is granted for a longer period than one year.

At the Egyptian—

Now: "Life of the Party."

Monday, Tuesday: Freddie Bartholomew in "Lloyds of London."

Wednesday, Thursday: "Charley Chan on Broadway."

That's My Story

Mighty heart-warming, I can tell you—to receive so many kind words and handshakes and new subscriptions and ads, in recognition of the new Our Town...

Only division of opinion seems to be on the following: The station story (one railroad official, asked to subscribe, spluttered "most inopportune...") The Firesides (a change to breeziness in some of the items startled some). And the "Sh-h-h" column (most regard it an excellent circulation builder, but some consider it offensive; what's your reaction?).

Another new column, introduced last week, is John Mulligan's. Well-liked when he wrote for another Main Line publication, he is doubly welcomed in his home-town paper.

How do you like "The Book Shelf?" TOM ELWOOD.

Left Name Out

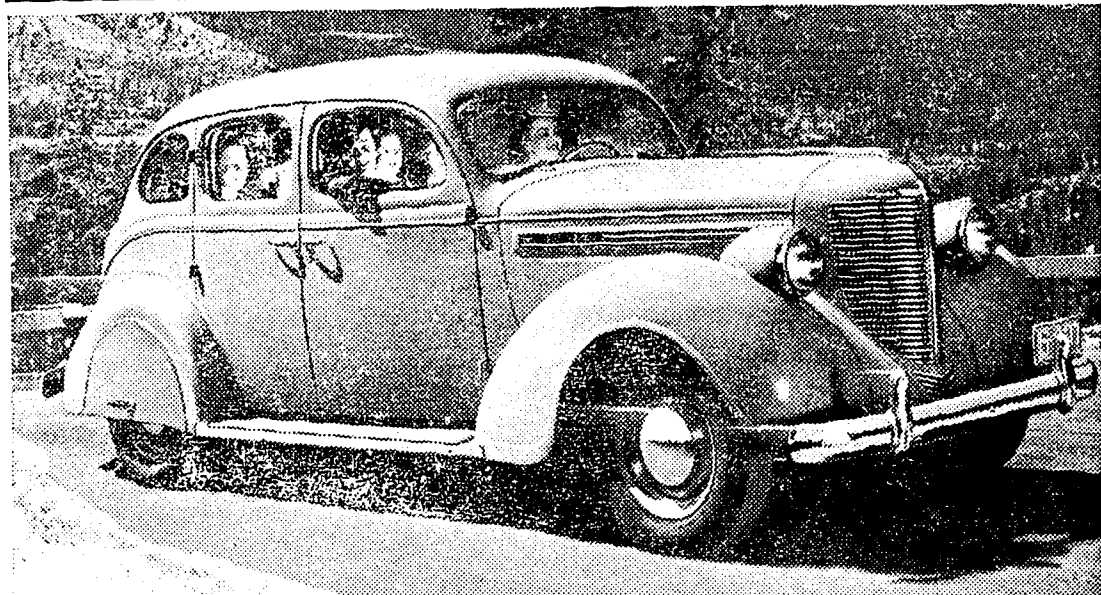

In reporting the Reciprocity Luncheon given November 15 for the Regent of the Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter, D. A. R., the papers last week omitted the name of the Regent, who presided. She is Mrs. Franklin R. Lindsay, 61 Wynnedale road, Narberth.

Joseph B. Kaesshaefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Kaesshaefer, of 557 Hansell road, and a junior at Wesleyan University, has been chosen a member of the Junior Prom Committee.

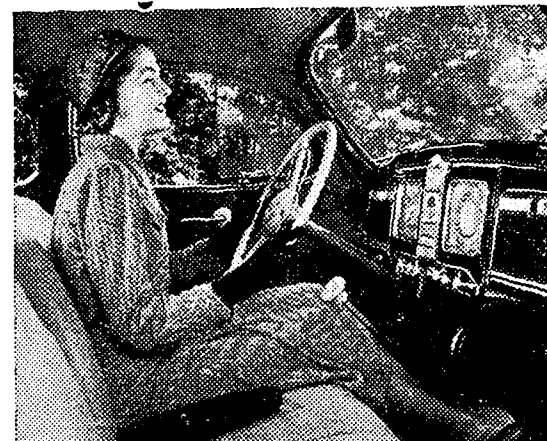

Sh-h-h-h...

A young matron has a sociable habit, whenever a car parks in front of her house, of wandering out and parking herself in it . . . a good means of meeting strangers . . . good-looker, too. . . And there's the man who parks on a hill so when he goes there's no late-night noise of a starter. . . And the Essex avenue mystery woman who parks every night at six for about six. . . And E. N., who says if anything about him gets in this column, he will "t%&".

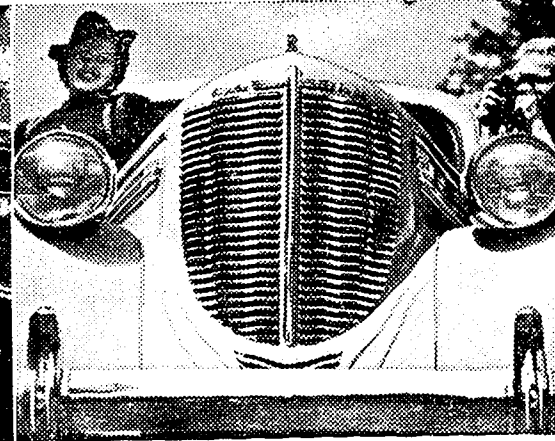

Chrysler Offers Two New Cars For 1938

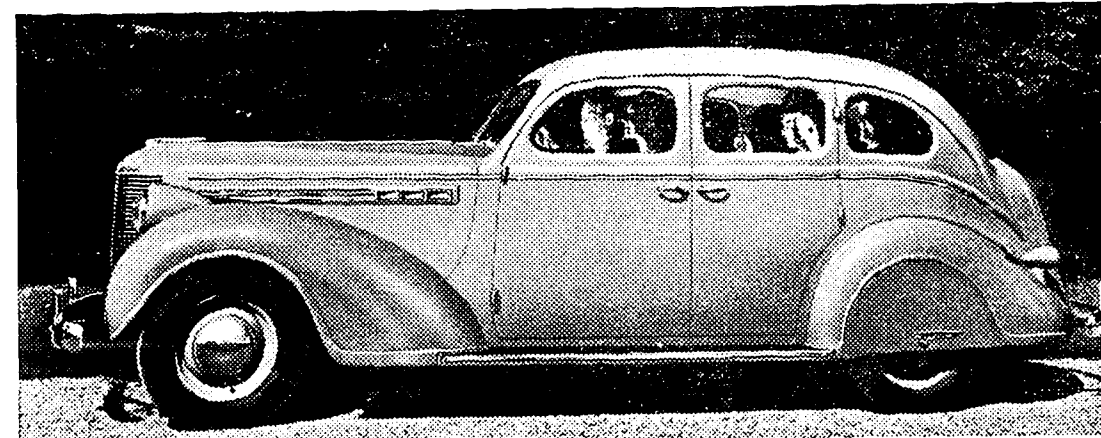

The Chrysler Royal four-door touring sedan. It has a wheelbase of 119 inches and a Gold Seal engine developing 95 horsepower. A completely new front end treatment and many new features make it the finest car in the price class that Chrysler has ever offered.

Interior of the driver's compartment of the Chrysler Imperial. It has an entirely new instrument board, a new type of steering wheel, a new position for the emergency brake handle and other improvements.

The attractive front end of the Chrysler Royal. This car has been completely restyled with new radiator, fenders, hood and headlamps, giving it exceptional beauty and sleekness of appearance.

The Chrysler Imperial four-door touring sedan. On a wheelbase of 125 inches and with an engine developing 110 horsepower, this car offers remarkable performance with good economy. It brings luxurious motoring into the moderate price field.

Radical changes in exterior appearance, greatly refined and beautified interiors, larger and more powerful engines of improved design, longer wheel bases, larger hydraulic brakes and a score of mechanical refinements and improvements feature the two new cars comprising the Chrysler line for 1938. These cars again are designated as the Chrysler Royal and Chrysler Imperial respectively.

Although the Airflow will not be continued in the same form as produced last year, the company makes clear that it has not been dropped, since the Airflow engineering features and principles of construction have been incorporated in all Chrysler models. Chief among these are the scientific weight distribution and Airflow springing that have produced such remarkable riding qualities in Chrysler cars. The owner who desires seven-passenger capacity, in a heavy and luxurious car on an exceptionally long wheelbase will find it in the Custom Imperial models.

The Chrysler Royal, with which Chrysler again will bid for business in the low-price field has been increased in wheelbase from 116 to 119 inches. Whatever the change in the price of this model it will preserve its relative competitive position. It comes in ten body styles as follows: Four-door sedan, four-door touring sedan, brougham, touring brougham, convertible coupe, convertible sedan, rumble seat coupe and coupe on the 119-inch wheelbase and seven-passenger sedan and sedan-limousine on a special 136-inch chassis.

Wheelbase of the Imperial has been raised from 121 to 125 inches. This car, as the company expresses it, gives "remarkable performance at moderate price". It comes in six body styles, namely four-door touring sedan, touring brougham, convertible coupe, convertible sedan, coupe and rumble seat coupe. The Custom Imperial now has a wheelbase of 144 inches, four inches more than last year's corresponding models although the overall length remains the same. It comes in three body styles, seven-passenger sedan, seven-passenger sedan-limousine and five-passenger sedan. In size, power and beauty and completeness of appointments it is Chrysler's conception of the ultimate in luxurious motoring.

Except for the difference in size the cars are uniform in appearance, purposely made so in order that a Chrysler of whatever body style may be readily recognized. The most startling and pleasing change is found in the front end treatment.

The Chrysler Gold Seal engine, introduced last year on the Chrysler Royal has been improved in that car and introduced in larger dimension on the eight-cylinder Chrysler Imperial. The engine of the Royal has been given ¼ inch more stroke, which brings its cubic displacement up to 241.5 cubic inches. Cylinders are 3¼ bore and 4½ inches stroke. At 3600 revolutions the engine develops 95 horsepower using the standard cast iron head and a 6.2 to 1 compression ratio. With a special aluminum head and a 7.1 to 1 compression ratio, it is rated at 102 horsepower. Lengthening of the stroke has resulted in an improvement in torque, which means better performance at the speeds most used by the average driver and better acceleration. A new crankshaft with four main bearings 2½ inches in diameter and nine counterweights, together with an improved impulse neutralizer, produces remarkable smoothness.

A new camshaft with earlier opening and closing of the intake valves also is a feature of the engine. Combined with the large ports and valves it adds to efficiency and smoothness. The full-length water jacket with the oil gallery contacting directly at its lower end gives efficient cooling to both cylinders and oil. Valve seat inserts of special heat-resisting steel insure perfect valve seating throughout a long period.

The new Gold Seal eight-cylinder engine designed for the Imperial has a ¾ inch longer stroke than last year's engine and its cubic displacement has been raised to 298.6 cubic inches with a 3¼ bore and 4½ stroke. It develops 110 horsepower at 3400 r.p.m. with the standard cast iron head and compression ratio of 6.2 to 1. With a special aluminum head and 6.5 to 1 compression ratio the horsepower is raised to 115. An even higher compression ratio of 7.4 to 1 also will be offered as optional. Although the horsepower is rated the same as last year when an aluminum head was used, it is developed at lower engine speed and with greater torque.

The Custom Imperial engine remains dimensionally unchanged a 3¼ inch bore, 4½ inch stroke and 323.5 cubic inches displacement. It develops 130 horsepower with the standard aluminum head and 6.5 to 1 compression ratio. An optional head with 7.45 to 1 compression ratio raises the horsepower to 138.

The net result of the engine changes will be an improved performance without the sacrifice of any of the economy for which Chrysler were noted in 1937. The 1937 Royal in the hands of owners encountering all kinds of driving conditions was giving from 18 to 24 miles per gallon of gasoline. This will be equalled by the 1938 engine. Chrysler engineers are confident

Tells of Modern Trucks

An increase of from 66 per cent to 71.6 per cent in the loadable length of truck bodies is made possible by modern methods of design even though the total actual body length is shorter. B. B. Bachman, of Ardmore, vice-president in charge of engineering at the Autocar Company, told the Society of Automotive Engineers meeting at Pittsburgh recently.

In our conventional design of truck,
Mr. Bachman said, the loadable body length from rear up to the cab is 66 per cent. By modern methods of placing the engine under the seat, the total body length is reduced considerably, but the loadable portion is increased to 71.6 per cent of the total length. The shorter wheelbase also results in reducing the turning radius of the truck from 74 feet to 50 feet, an important reduction in city streets and traffic.

Business Bits

Barney Silver is celebrating the second anniversary of his Narberth ford avenue, this week. Certified by the Horological Institute of America as a competent watchmaker, he has been engaged in jewelry, watch years.

Place your hand on a spot in Walt Case's window, on Narberth avenue, and the window lights up—as many a passer-by has noticed. It's an adaptation of a burglar alarm. . . A tube oscillates and drops a magnet—but let's not get technical.

Nice co-operative spirit shown by the Narberth business people this week—evidenced by the many ads in Our Town. If only such support of the community paper could continue . . . Maybe it will, if you respond to those ads.

Your editor was about to write up something about Thanksgiving, or reprint Governor Earle's proclamation, or something—when Howard Cotter volunteered an ad for this week that is better worded than anything
Governor or editor could do.

Several Salvation Army lassies serenaded Haverford avenue, Monday morning, picking the Horn and Hard-art store front for their band stand.
Can it be that they noticed the store doesn't advertise in Our Town, and that they are concerned over the state of Mr. H. & H.'s soul? Surely not that!

Nearby, in front of Cotter's Market, a turkey and a goose made uneasy noises in the cage that they shared. After all, little cause for Thanksgiving had they.

Santa's at S. & C. Today

All the children along the Main

Christmas City is beloved for his own jolly self and for the sweets and toys he distributes on his way. It's a great day, when grown-ups get caught up in the Merry Christmas racket of hands and bells and children's happy voices.

Sidelines

I saw Radnor and Lower Merion last week-end and got that old feeling... Nothing pleases a so-called expert more than to learn that he picked 'em right... The Raiders notched their initial victory over L. M. in six years by earning that 14-6 win, and Villanova rocked the sports world by enjoying a pre-Thanksgiving Day meal on Temple's Owl.

It was a sad day for lower Main Liners when Jules Prevost's Raiders licked Al Adam's eleven... However, that 33-0 romp of the Wildcats took away some of the sting... And local grid followers get more of a kick out of Villanova football now that it wisely has been arranged to develop a number of Main Line athletes for its teams.

Radnor's triumph will, no doubt, prove a tonic to the ancient school-boy rivalry... The fans were so used to seeing Lower Merion win that many took it for granted and stayed away... They opined that the Maroon gradually was outgrowing Wayne in a football sense... Less than 7000 were on hand at Villanova Stadium, which indicated clearly that interest had faded considerably.

Of course Villanova has come forward rapidly to encourage greater interest in its gridiron battles... Many who would have liked to have seen the Maroon-Raider tilt decided to turn their interest to the "Cat-Owl" affair so they would be in on the predicted "killing."

As Gene Davis remarked the other day, it would be well if dates were switched so that the two big games in the future would not be played on the same afternoon... John Fan, who pays the bills, has a right to the privilege of seeing both.

Jim Sanford's Narberth gridders dropped a hard-fought 8-0 decision to Gladwyne Sunday at the playground... One of Howdy Powell's punts was blocked, resulting in a safety... A pass from Vic Newborg, of Narberth, to George Morris gave the visitors their touchdown.

Laura Snow is working hard to prime her Narberth Girls' Club basketball team for their opener... Wonder if she will feature the "freeze" act.

It's rumored that Narberth will not be a member of the Main Line Baseball League next year... Prediction: If that is the McCoy there WILL BE NO MAIN LINE LEAGUE... The borough team proved itself no goose, but it certainly laid plenty of golden eggs for the circuit.

Time Out

has the Maroon eleven lived up to the best of which it was capable. Don't blame the coaches. I think the boys were just too busy stifling a yawn.

"I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him."

The Orange and Black combination from the Junior High School concluded their schedule with a brilliant victory over a much stronger and heavily favored Upper Darby eleven on Friday afternoon. Dick Mattis' boys had to work hard for their 13 to 0 victory before a huge crowd that was pulling hard for the Darbys. The home team threatened throughout the game, but Lower Merion made some breaks for itself and then took advantage of them and two quick thrusts at the goal line brought victory.

The Junior School's record was 4 victories, 2 tie games and 2 defeats. The defeat given them by Edison was the first in three years, breaking a record of some 27 or 28 consecutive victories.

I'm sticking my chin out again, but I favor another underdog this week (writing before Thanksgiving). Cornell comes to Franklin Field a heavy favorite over a doubtful combination of football players representing Penn. Pennsylvania has been improving right along this season and should be in condition to put up the best exhibition of football they have displayed this year. Cornell should win, but football is 99 per cent fight and I believe the boys from the Red and Blue want this one. If they want it bad enough they will win.

Princeton showed the way over Navy last week. A football team can be kicked around only as long as the players are willing to stand for the kicking.
